On Sinclair Charge Judge Praises Jury's Verdict

in New York Extertion and Bribe Trial. New York, Feb. 15 (A.P.).-Edward P. Brown and Elmer F. Andrews

Internal revenue agents, who were accused of conspiring to extort, and accept a bribe from legal representatives of Harry F. Sinclair, were acquitted today by a jury in a Federal court.

Judge William Bondy, before whom the case was tried, told the jurors he approved of their verdict, and said that the Government's case looked so much like an entrapment to him that if a verdict of guilty had been returned he would have been inclined to set it aside.

The two men had been accused of attempting to collect $37,500 from Sinclair's attorneys in return for spproving a deduction of $250,000 in the amount of Sinclair's income taxes for 1925 and 1926. Brown had been assigned to investigate the deduction claim.

SILENCE KEPT ON VIEWS GET 8 DAYS TO PREPARE

Paria, Feb. 15 (A.P.).—The second Dawes committee, as Chairman Owen D. Young has named the present reparations commission, today completed lits preliminary ramination of the big problem it faces and adjourned untul Monday. The holicay was decided upon in order to give the various international experts opportunity to think over the mass of figures and arguments which have been presented this week by Dr. Hjalmar Schacht on behalf of the German viewpoint.

The week has been devoted almost in its entirety to a study of the economic situation in Germany as set forth by Dr. Schacht and other members of the German delegation. Questions by delegates from the other six countries represented have brought out a number of points in committee as a whole has refrained from drawing any conclusions on the basis of the information developed. The Germans appeared well have been grounded with next week. The seasions are the elegates when it came to discussing the possible or probable direction of committee action.

It was understood that some of the concrete problems are to be grappled with next week. The seasions are likely to take on a more formal aspect in this second stage. Among the vital points bound to come up, the chief ones probably will revolve around determination of the amount and the number of the annulties Germany must pay.

Johnson Offers Amendment to Own Bill, Urging Deportation of Gun Toters.

DRY ISSUE THEN INJECTED

The rattle of Chicago's gun squad sketry echoed in the House chambe yesterday when epresentative Johnson (Republican), of Washington, chairman of the House committee on immigration, offered an amendment to his own bill to provide that once an alien is convicted of carrying a weapon or a bomb in violation of the law, deporta-tion shall follow.

The Johnson amendment was offered in the progress of a field day in immi-gration legislation in the House, which witnessed the passage of the Box bill which would debar any but native-born Canadians from working in this coun-try and commuting back to Canada and the free bill providing for easier enthe free bill providing for easier en-trance of skilled workmen.

All in all, it was a rough day for the allen and awakened the ire of New York representatives. They insisted in carrying out suggestions made by both Herbert Hoover and Gov. Smith that laws humanizing immigration should take precedence.

Spirit of Bills Assailed.

Representative John J. O'Connor (Democrat), of New York, opposing the rule by which the immigration bills were brought up, said there was a spirit pervading this country today that was reflected in these immigration bills, which spirit, he said, is a menace to the country.

"Has anybody ever said anything about establishing a penal colony for the deportation of citizen criminals?"

Commenting on the Box bill, he asserted it "represents a spirit of superior intolerance to our neighbors on the north and south."

The first day's session of the jury was adjourned until February 23 without uncovering any information that would serve to solve the garage massacre.

Gunmen drew their usual deep veil of secrecy about their heavily guarded haunts, Federal and city officials clashed in their theories and motives as all forces of the law moved unsuccessfully today to learn why, how and by whom seven men were lined up against a wall and massacred in a hall of lead and steel.

The coroner's jury was shown how the men alighting from an automobile dashed into the garage, lined their seven enemies against the wall and let loose their deadly missiles in fierce accuracy and numbers. The jury was shown how the men fell to the floor, how one man's head lay across the feet of a dead companion and how another slumped across a chair.

The crime was reenacted at the St. Valentine's Day shambles, but the investigators tonight admitted they "had not found the gailty ones."

The beer war was behind the slayings, all forces agreed, but which phase was responsible puzzled officials. Another gang, possibly one from an outside city, was incensed because "Bugs" Moran's followers had hijacked their liquor trucks and wrought bloody vengeance.

Dry Man Accuses Police. F. D. Silloway, assigned to the case by the prohibition department, caused a heated clash between his office and that of Commissioner of Police Russell when he said he had "confidential in-formation" that policemen were insupported rumors."

John Pendergast, of the detective bureau, joined Russell in discrediting Silloway's theory and said the latter was "barking up the wrong tree."
Silloway's views, however, coincided with a statement of Police Sergt. Al Hofman, who questioned Frankle Gusenberg shortly before the gangster died. Gusenberg was the only one of the seven victims alive when police arrived at the "firing line" yesterday.

Gusenberg Blamed Police.

The sergeant quoted Gusenberg as saying "I was shot by two coppers."
This was linked further with a statement made by a woman who saw the murderers leave the garage after the massacre. She told police that two of the men wore police uniforms, but had no stars.

Russell advanced the belief that the woman had seen two policemen removing the dying Frank Gusenberg to spolice ambulance.

After persistent questioning the men gave the following names and addresses:

Edward A. Andrews, Fred Meyles, Ed Sullivan, Arnoid Greenbush, all of Chicago: and C. E. Mason, Indianapolis. Detectives said Andrews described himself as "one of Capone's men" and explained that he and his companions had come to Indianapolis to arrange for opening up new liquor markets.

Clewiston, Fla., Feb. 15 .- Presidentelect Hoover today rode more than 200 miles through that wilderness of Plorida that was wrought by nature, a real estate boom and two hurricanes and he was greeted as a great deliverer. Little girls and boys and their mothers and fathers, dressed in share contrast to the silken luxury that is Miami, cheered him, waved to him and looked at him eagerly in sheer confiience that he is going to turn their vast everglades waste into riches with a Federal flood plan and a high tariff and then a solution of the surplus

Mr. Skipper retorted, in effect, that this was abourd, that the Republicans do not do things that way. The Republicans say they want the project taken entirely from the hands of the State authorities, these State authorities all being Democrats now suggesting that their backs are against the wall. It has been a political football too long, Republicans aver. Or as one grizzled old codger at Canal Point put it poignantly: "The State authorities up at Tallahassee have almost drowned me twice. So, damn it, I voted for Hoover and I want to see what he can do." There was more than prohibition and religion in the campaign in this section of Florida.

Society Also Hears Essay on Washington Read; Banquet Planned.

Reading of a paper on George Washington and the presentation of two ones act plays marked the meeting of the Society of Natives of the District of Columbia at the Washington Club last night.

Fred A. Emery read the paper on Washington. He gave an interesting picture of Washington as a young man and advanced the theory that if the first President were living today he would advocate a farm relief tariff and sent of the prohibition law, though he would be against prohibition itself, Mr. Emery said.

The two plays, "The Teeth of the Gift Horse" and "The Man Who Came Back," were presented by the Wigs and Queues. Announcement was made that plans have been completed for the annual banquet of the society to be held at the Mayflower Hotel on the night of April 15.

Mrs. Keefer has not appeared in redital for over a year in Washington, and her admirers were delighted with the improvement in her voice, which has always been a true and melodious one. Excellent control and fine dramatic qualities were displayed with that ease that comes with experience and were important factors in the distinct success of the recital.

Herrington Van Hoesen, barytone, of New York, added much to the program with two groups of songs particularly suited to his voice.

Frank La Forge, planist and accompations of the ways and means committee.

Director Hines, of the Veterans, Bureau, told the veterans committee that consolidation of all Government veterans' activities would save $1,500,000 a year.

Frank La Forge, planist and accompanist, received his full share of the applause from the appreciative audience, especially at the end of the songs of which he is the composer, sung by Mrs. Keefer and Mr. Van Hoesen. A plano number, "Romance," by Mr. La Forge, was played in a masterly manner by the artist-composer.

After a day of debate, which drew some Republicans to the support of the North Dakotan and showed Democrats generally behind the Montanan, the issue went over until today, when Senator Robinson (Republican). Indiana, announced he would take the floor to oppose Walsh.

The resolution for which the Montanan is seeking Senate approval was rejected by the lands committee, and Walsh brought it up on the floor over the protest of Chairman Nye, who indicated that he planned to present a report setting forth the committee's majority view.

Senator Walsh complained of "lack of discretion" by Hubert Work former Secretary of the Interior, who ordered a r ewal of the Sinclair contract last February, upon the advice of the solicitor of the Interior Department.

Reports London Inspired. Inspired reports from London relative to naval arms limitation developments were noted yesterday by senators who had about given up hope of obstructing final action on naval appro-

It is known that Sir Esme had been asked a week or more ago to express his views on the possibility of a naval limitation conference and had declined to make any statement while the cruiser bill was under discussion in the Senate.

In other words, he waited until the cruiser bill had been disposed of by the Senate and signed by the President before making his statement.

Furthermore, the ambassador's statement at this time is in one sense a vindication of the contention of those senators who supported national defense and asserted that no arms limitation proposal could be expected from Great Britain until the British became convinced that America was determined to build ships of steel and not of paper.

In other words, he waited until the praise proposal could be resident before and any discussions that take place will certainly proceed on the assumption that these ships will be built.

America is to be represented and advance work has been steadily progressing with a view to laying down a framework for discussion at this conference. Obviously there can be no conference called which would disregard these preliminary plans.

The British Ambassador's statement, though general in character and made unofficially, is designed to accomplish one important object in advance of the Geneva meeting.

That object is the dissipation of the apparent friction between Great Britain and the United States over the naval limitation problem.

It has been necessary for some time for some one to take the lead in breaking the diplomatic deadlock which followed President Coolidge's communication to the British government decining to discuss arms limitation on the British government may wish to choose to make it.

"The United States has hitherto shown itself favorable to the idea of continuing negotiations for an agreement in this sense.

The British did not reply to that communication, though the American note suggested that any further suggestions would be given consideration. It is probable that the British government will make a belated reply to that communication so that a more cordinatements where many he created in advances.

ANOTHER CONFERENCE?

The British government, through its Ambassador at Washington, intimates that it will soon initiate an effort to bring about an agreement by the principal naval powers for further limitation of armaments. Sir Esme Howard states that while the cruiser bill was under discussion in Congress any proposal to rehew limitation conversations might have been interpreted as an attempt to interfere with the passage of the bill. When the British elections are out of the way a proposal for a conference may be forthcoming.

The cruiser bill, now a law, provides: In the event of an international agreement which the President is requested to encourage for the further limitation of naval armament, to which the United States is signatory, the President is hereby authorized and empowered to suspend in whole or in part any of the naval construction authorized under

There can be no agreement, so far as the United States is concerned, until the Senate has ratified it. If the new construction should give the United States a greater cruiser tonnage than Britain will possess, there would be some reason to expect the consummation of an agreement that would call for suspension of American building. But after the new ers have been built the United States Navy will still have approximately 100,000 cruiser tonnage less than the British navy. Hence, even if an agreement should be reached, there will be no occasion for suspension of construction. The wisdom of Congress in refusing to eave the construction of cruisers discrefionary with the President may be emhasized if another conference should be held. It is the understanding of Congress that the word "agreement" means formal treaty ratified by the Senate, and not a mere tentative project signed by the representatives of the several overnments. The American people are on their guard, and with good reason, against foreign overtures which might be intended to dissuade the United States from building up its fleet to the 5-5-3

A sound and reasonable basis for a new onference would be a proposal from Great Britain to suspend all building on ts part pending the completion of sufficient ships by the United States to bring its Navy up to the 5-5-3 ratio. An agreement upon this basis would remove all apprehensions of competitive building, would be in harmony with the spirit the Washington treaty, and would establish confidence and peace. The naons could then look forward to 1931, with every assurance that another decisive step could be taken, not only toward limitation but toward actual reducon of naval armaments. Thus Great Britain would not be required to make such a sacrifice as the United States made in 1922 when it scrapped millions of dollars' worth of ships. Before the United States agrees to any nference it should make sure that a asis of understanding has been reached which will assure the success of the conberence. Another fiasco like that of Geneva might bring even worse developnts than those of 1927 and 1928. As the two leading naval powers have aldy agreed upon the principle of equalof naval strength, it follows that nerican construction up to the point of ality must go on, whether there is to be another conference or not.

ONE RAILROAD EXPRESS.

The Interstate Commerce Commission no ibt took a great deal of pleasure in apousiness of the country under the Pay Express Agency, Inc. Plans for the g project were submitted to the decision of the case was necessary, because the new arrangement will become effective March 1, but the hearty approval on the part of the commission of the railroads' plans to manage their own express business must have been a factor in the prompt action.

The new arrangement becomes necessary because of the elimination of the American Railway Express Co. from its position as middleman between the shipping public and the railroads. The uniform express contract held by this agency will terminate this month, and the carriers refused to renew it, in the belief that they can more profitably carry on the express business themselves. Negotiations for purchase of the express company's properties were therefore entered into. The necessary capital will be raised by the new company through issuance of 1,000 shares of capital stock and $32,000,000 in 5 per cent bonds. The nominal issue of capital will be divided among 86 railroad concerns, and profits from express service will be divided among them in proportion to the business which each contributes.

Direct handling of the express business by the railroads should meet with general approval. Rate making will be simplified, and both the carriers and the public should bene-The Interstate Commerce Commission will no longer be perplexed with the presence of an agency which is neither a carrier nor a shipper. The railroads and the commission are to be congratulated on the dispatch with which the new arrangement has been made effective. The successful culmination of this improvement strengthens the hope that still other readjustments can be made in the interests of major transportation agencies and the public.

THE ROOT OF THE DRUG EVIL.

In 1912 many nations entered into an agree ment at The Hague which should have abolished the use of narcotic drugs for all except medicinal and scientific purposes. Each government pledged itself to enact laws which would limit the manufacture, sale and use of narcotics by control of production and exportation. Complying with the convention, the United States passed laws which have proved so effective that only a negligible part of the drugs manufactured in this country is diverted into illicit channels.

In spite of this fact the United States is still cursed with an illicit drug traffic. Large quantities of habit-forming drugs are being smuggled into this country, which means that some foreign nations are not observing their agreement. Signatory powers to The Hague opium convention were reminded of their obligation through the diplomatic branch of the Government in 1926, but there has been no noticeable improvement. Within the last two years at least ten large shipments of morphine, heroin, cocaine and opium have fallen into the hands of Federal narcotic agents. This represents but a small portion of the "dope" that is being smuggled into the United States. The situation has led Representative Porter, chairman of the House committee on foreign affairs, to introduce a joint resolution in Congress, requesting the President to make further representation to the powers which are parties to The Hague convention and which have failed to make its provisions effective.

One nation alone can not protect itself reginat the ravages of parcetics. The manufacture of drugs can not be prohibited, because of their importance in medical and scientific use. The Hague convention recognized the fact that the only way of preventing their illicit use is by government regulation of production and distribution. Practically all of the drugs used in medicine, which are also used to satisfy drug habits, are manufactured in 54 pharmaceutical laboratories located in seven different countries. Unlike the bootleg liquor business, the manufacture of drugs requires an investment of millions of dollars, and therefore is easily subject to regulation. If their operations were strictly controlled by legislation, the manufacturers would not imperil their large investments by violating the law.

Mr. Porter logically concludes that the 'problem of eradicating the habit-forming narcotic-drug evil confronting the world resolves itself to the simple proposition of establishing in each country where laboratories exist such control of their output as will prevent their products reaching illicit channels of trade." It is the inescapable duty of every nation to take such action. The President should make plain to them that further delay will be considered a violation of The Hague agreement. And if importation of drugs into this country is not stopped the final clause of the resolution, providing that the government shall "take such action as the circumstances may require to meet the situation then arising," should be invoked.

WHAT FEDERAL EMPLOYES WANT.

The short session of Congress is rapidly drawing to a close. The issue of outstanding immediate importance to Federal employes is the clarification of the Welch act and the removal of injustices and inequalities developed in its administration during the last few months. Bills to effect this important purpose have been favorably reported to the House and Senate by the civil service committees.

The National Federation of Federal Employes, representing as it does the Government workers throughout the country, has, with the constructive foresight which has characterized all of its operations, been instrumental in bringing to a favorable legislative position the bills which will be of general substantial benefit to the Government's personnel. In contrast to this orderly procedure small groups and irresponsible individual employes, entirely missing the object of the pending legislation which is limited to correction of one measure, are attempting to remedy all defects in the Federal personnel structure at one fell swoop.

It is unfortunate, but true, that the capacity of a few individuals for destructive mischiefmaking is out of all proportion to their capacity for constructive effort. The best interests of Federal employes require that legislation correcting the Welch act be enacted into law at the present session. The best counsel that can be given to the Government workers at this critical juncture is to support the able leadership of the National Federation of Federal Employes in cooperation with the capable es' champions in the House and Senate and not lend ald or comfort to chimerical es of indivduals or petty cliques, which

We feel confident that Congress will not be misled by the insensate clamor of a few notoriety seekers and crack pot theorists, but will without delay enact the reasonable, wellconsidered proposals representing the expressions of the vast majority of the employes as presented through the responsible medium of their only recognized organization.

REAL TARIFF REVISION DEMANDED.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

There was in Washington a few days ago much talk that there would be no general tariff revision at the coming special session of Congress. It was said textiles might be given a little help. Possibly steel would be aided. Here and there a schedule would be touched up a bit. The farm schedules would be rewritten. The farmers would be given any and everything they wanted, as they were in the emergency tariff of 1921 and the tariff act of 1922.

But-in the main there was to be no general revision. The theory was that all sweep ing changes would wait until the next regular session. There were emphatic intimations that Mr. Hoover wanted to wait. These were strengthened when Senator Smoot came back from Miami Beach declaring he was opposed to any complete revision.

There is not so much of that talk now. The House ways and means committee is settling the question of whether revision shall be partial or general. It has been in session for weeks. Hundreds of manufacturers have appeared at its hearings. They have shown it is a condition and not a theory that confronts American industry. They have told their story, and the burden thereof is that of insufficient protection against a reviving and vigorous Europe and an ambitious and pushing Orient. .

These hearings covered the tariff schedule by schedule. Any doubts that did exist about the necessity of a genuine revision have been

On or about March 10 the House committee will begin writing the new tariff. This will be ready about May 1. The trend of that measure may now be forecast in a general way.

Changes will not be confined to farm and textile schedules. Not all rates will be lifted, but most of them will be raised. Where an industry is suffering from the pressure of foreign competition, it will get further pro-

It is probable that a few articles will vanish from the free list. When revisions are made, they will be upward. Practically every schedule will be opened for the changes that the last six years have shown as necessary or imperative.

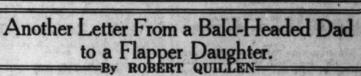

The revisions proposed are described as 'conservative," except in the farm schedules. They may be too "conservative" for the Senate, which is more likely to raise than it is to lower them.

Instead of merely tinkering with the tariff, the House committee will offer a new tariff law. Its hearings have shown the stark necessity of action.

Mr. Hoover may wish to wait awhile, but the country is not willing. Genuine revision is expected as soon as this can be made. The Republican party is pledged to it. Protection was its leading issue in 1928. The incoming administration is bound by the pledges made last year and the Seventieth Congress was chosen upon the question of genuine protec-

This is understood by Congress, and particularly by the House ways and means committe. Its duty is to revise the tariff whereeyer, in its judgment, changes are necessary. That it is preparing to do. If the special session meets on or about April 15, the committee will have a measure ready within two weeks after it convenes.

And if and when the schedules are opened, revision will be general rather than piecemeal, That is what the country expected as soon as the results of the election of last November were known. It is what both industry and the country assumed would be done. In preparing a bill revising rates generally upward. the House committee is carrying out the manlast week and approved just five can have but one effect, that of creating doubt | date so clearly expressed in November, 1928.

Different people find different explanations of the divorce evil, and most of them are right in part; but I believe most of the romances fail because they weren't ripe.

If love is harvested before it matures it spoils. People who get a divorce don't think marriage a failure.

The man who gets a divorce still yearns for a kind, sweeet woman who will love him and play fair and make his home happy. The woman who finds one marriage unendurable still longs for a

PICTURE SAID TO ENCOMPASS ACADEMY TONE

The true spirit of Annapolis long has been considered quite impossible to put into a motion picture. Yet it was done by Director Christy Cabanne and Supervisor F. McGrew Willis who made "Annapolis," now to be heard and seen at the Earle Theater, it being a Paths sound production with John Mack Brown, Hugh Allan and Jeanette Loff in the featured roles.

The company, headed by Willis, journeyed from California to U. 5. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., in order to photograph a majority of the scenes which compose this dramatic story of the midshipmen. The accurate depiction of life among the "middies" at the academy and the superb photographic views of the ground; and buildings are due in a large part to the splendid cooperation given by officials of the academy and the superb photographic views of the ground; and buildings are due in a large part to the splendid cooperation given by officials of the academy and the midshipmen themselves, who worked hard to make "their picture," as they called it, as perfect as possible.

The fact that Willis and Cabanne worked together on a previous occasion at the same naval base, renders it reasonably certain that the picture presents to the American public and to all foreign nations the spirit that prevalls at the Naval Academy in its fruest form.

Closely following this, Harold, P. Sheets, of Woodstock, Va., advised The Post that he had also been successful in logging the elusive Arkansan.

"I logged Station KLCN at Blytheville, Ark, at 1:38 a. m.," Mr. Sheetz wrote. "They were broadcasting a musical selection "High Up on a Hill Top." suggestion that this might all be a good-natured hoax—that the broad-caster down in Arkansas, a State noted for its highly developed sense of humor, might be announcing that he was only using 7½ watts, but possibly to get a laugh at the expense of the night-owl fans was putting considerably more power into the antenna.

This theory, however, is not concurred in by W. D. Terrell, chief radio supervisor of the United States.

FEBRUARY 16

IF February 16 is you birthday, the most propitious hours for you today are from 9:15 a. m. to 10:15 a. m., from noon to 1:15 p. m., from 5 p. m. to 6 p. m., and from 9 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 10:45 a. m. to 11:45 a. m., and from 7 p. m. to

The child born today will be inherently gentle and kind, true and loyal as well as tactful. It will be an omnivorous reader and rather disposed to sacrifice physical for mental development.

You have many charming qualities that on short acquaintance attracts people to you; on the other hand, you possess many distressing traits that, on lidnger acquaintance, estrange and annoy. Lack of loyalty to those who are loyal to you is the biggest defect in your "make-up," and until you learn to cease speaking unkindly of those who have nothing but kindly feelings for you, life will not hold out many rewards of friendship for you.

Your mental equipment is varied and valuable, you are, by nature, studious; you have a very keen scent for a good bargain. Your mannerisms are conciliatory and your conversation persuasive and most people, especially those not gifted with analytical minds, will be convinced by your plausibility.

Your ambition is high; your ideals are, however, too material to be of much value. Everything worth-while is appraised by you in dollars and cents, and that which will not yield a quick return in money is discarded as un-worthy of any effort. You miss, by

If life should say to me: "Shut eyes to beauty,

Wouldn't have to ask any one what to do. But these women are not capable of an all-enveloping love.

Those who prefer security to love should certainly not be despised. Many prefer the valleys to the mountain tops. But many should make their choice and stand by it. Many women resent this necessity for making a choice. They make a noble gesture. "I guess love." Then they spend the rest of their lives making their husband miserable because he is the same insufficient person queer, and so different from the ones we see today.

Yet some modern animals are queer enough. There is a story that a man looked at a girafte for the first time and (in spite of the report of his own eyes) shouted, "There stin't no such animal!"

In the case of the girafte, it is easy to prove that there is such an animal; but to prove that there is such an animal; but to prove that there were dinosaurs, is harder. We must depend mostly upon the skeletons which they left, though some of them left tracks of their feet in mud which later hardened and formed rock.

People of a few hundred years ago used to find those bones, but they made laughable mistakes about them. Their most common error was to call certain bones (seven feet long) "the leg-bones of giant men." The finding of big bones in ancient times probably started the myths about giants.

In one way of speaking, the bones really belonged to giants—but to giant.

While color in general will be lighter and brighter for the coming season, there is one point that should be carefully noted—and that is the use of darker colors to heighten contrast and to set off the light colors. For instance, dark brown will be smart as a foil for cream beige and yellows. There will be touches of dark with light blue, and touches of black or gray to heighten other colors.

Violent Relapse Follows Advance of Money to 10 Per Cent.

MARKET OPENS STRONG

New York, Feb. 15 (A.P.) .- The stock market experienced one of the most violent relapses of the year today, as call money jumped from 61/2 to 10 per cent, a rate that has not been surpassed since 1921, save during the recent money flurry caused by the January 1 shifting of balances, when it touched 12.

The sharp tightening of money resulted from withdrawals totaling $60,-000,000 by the banks. Much of this was said to have been withdrawn by interior banks, and it was generally ascribed to the influence of the reserve banks. The day saw a general tightening of credit bankers acceptance rates rising % of one per cent for the second time this week, and time money moving up ¼ of one per cent to 7% per cent for some

The reaction was the most violent since February 7. The Associated Press index of 50 industrials dropped 4.6 points to a new 1929 low, in contrast to a drop of 7 points eight days ago.

Burst of Strength at Opening.

The market opened with a burst of trength, which appeared to be largely hort covering resulting from the faller of the New York Reserve Bank to also its rediscount rate last night. The best that the directors were in session will about To clock some three hours. until about 7 o'clock, some three hours longer than usual, however, was in-terpreted as indicating that strenuous orts are under way to carry out the serve Board's threat to choke off a supply of credit available for specution. While the directors were very cretive as to what was taking place, imors spread about Wall street that ost of them had favored a higher discount rate, but mot with opposi-on in Washington rediscount rate, but mot with opposition in Washington.

The Federal Reserve Board's advisory council which consists of one memberfrom each 12 reserve districts, meeting in Washington, issued a statement after the close of the market approving the board's action in asking the reserve banks to prevent diversion of reserve eredit into the stock market, and suggesting that each reserve bank directly ask all its member banks to cooperate.

Increase Believed Unnecessary.

"The council believes beneficial relits can be obtained in this manr," the statement said. Wall street us inclined to interpret this as inditing that the council considers higher discount rates unnecessary for the asent.

rediscount rates unnecessary for the present.

The trade and business news continued favorable. Several good earnings reports made their apperance and Sinclair resumed dividend payments on its common stock. January exports were reported at the highest for that month in eight years. The weekly trade reviews reported satisfactory progress.

American Express dropped 12 points, while Aliled Chemical, Byers, Chicago North Western preferred, General Electric, Johns-Manville, Otis Elevator, Rossia Insurance, Standard Milling and Union Carbide were among issues lossing from 6 to 10 points. U. S. Steel, American Can, American Smelting, Consolidated Gas, International Harvester, International Nickel, Kennecott, New York Central, Packard, Simmons and Upright Aero receded about 3 to 4 points. Radio sold off 9 points, but recovered much of its loss.

Most of Gains Are Lost.

American Can, American Smelting, Consolidated Gas, International Harvester, International Nickel, Kennecott, New York Central, Packard, Simmons and Upright Aero receded about 3 to 4 points. Radio sold off 9 points, but recovered much of its loss.

Most of Gains Are Lost.

American & Foreign Power and American Power & Light mounted about 7 and 8 points, the former to a new top, but lost most of their gains. New York traction issues were strong on expectation of a favorable decision to a new high, in buying influenced by large railway equipment orders.

The commodities markets were featured by a spurt of about 2 cents a pound in crude rubber futures, in excited buying arising from reports that American tire manufacturers had bought all of the available offerings of actual rubber in the trade. Wheat moved higher, but encountered realizing, while corn was firm. Cotton moved in a narrow range.

In the foreign exchange the Canadian dollar dropped to another new 1929 low at 99.62% cents, making gold shipments to New York highly probable. Sterling and other European currencies ruled somewhat higher during most of the day.

New York, Feb. 15 (A.P.) .- Commercial failures in the United States this week, as reported to R. G. Dun & Co., declined to 476, compared with 520 in the corresponding 1928 week.

The volume of life insurance production in January surpassed all previous records for the month, being 18.8 per cent higher than in January, 1928, the Association of Life Insurance Presidents reports. Each class of business—ordinary, industrial and group—made a new high last month. The total for all classes was $1,024,478,000, against $863,-606,000 in the 1928 period.

H. Hobart Porter, president of the American Water Works and Electric Co., before sailing for Europe, said 1928 had been the best year in the company's history and that 1929 promised to be even better. The company earned, he said, about $3.50 a common hare, compared with $2.79 in 1927.

Gotham Silk Hoslery Co., Inc., has called a meeting of stockholders for March 4 to vote on the proposal for converting its nonvoting common stock into voting common stock. This step has been taken in reference to the wishes of the New York Stock Exchange and as result of growth of sentiment against two classes of common stocks, one carrying no voting rights. The Radio Corporation of America has reduced the prices on ten types of vacuum tubes. Reductions range from 10 cents to $1. The Standard Oil Co. of California and the Texas Corporation have reduced the price of gasoline on the Pacific Coast 2 cents a gallon to a 15-cent tank wagon basis. This meets a cut made by other major companies. Stockholders of the American Rail-

This compares with 367,099,000 the previous week, when 38 more mills reported. Production was reported as below nor-mal, at 296,234,000 feet, sgainst 297,-476,000 the preceding week. 476,000 the preceding week.

The Radio Corporation of America, in expectation of a record-breaking year for production of vacuum tubes, is enfor production of vacuum tubes, is en-larging and reorganizating its plant fa-cilities at Bioomfield, N. J., Newark and Cleveland. So great was the de-mand last year that a tube shortage de-veloped near the end of the year, said J. L. Ray, vice president in charge of sales. He predicted the increase in production this year will be 150 per cent.

Stockholders of Claude Neon Lights, Inc. have authorized an increase in common stock to 3,000,000 shares of $1 par value and approved a split-up of the present 100,000 shares outstanding in ratio of 10 shares for one.

You couldn't say the Colonials won with eclat, but still there were spots of brilliance in their play which hitherto have not embellished G. W. games. Little Irving Fine, for instance, tossed field goals from all angles and positions and in all had a large evening with a total of 19 points.

Maryland's superiority was not evident until McGann came through, his tying points followed closely by two fielders from close range by Evans. At this stage Maryland took the lead by 3 to 4, never to be headed.

Both teams opened up slowly, feeling out each other's defense. After four minutes passed. Keen sank a free toss for Western Maryland. Radice put the home five in front with a beautiful one-hand stab from side court but Wilker deadlocked matters by duplicating Keen's shot.

Radice's Shooting Ergsss Threat

In breaking their losing streak, which had covered seven contests, the Colonials for the first time this season displayed smart passing and accuracy in shooting. Bill Snow, lanky center, showed a big improvement over his past performances and rung up a total of 12 points.

Massachusetts Body to Submit Names for Approval.

Move Follows Conference of Two Rival Managers.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 15 (AP.).

The men behind the scenes agreed today on a couple of points pertinent to the Sharkey-Stribling fight here February 27—one that both fighters should train a little heavier, and another, that the Massachusetts Boxing Commission would select a referee.

"Pa" Stribling and Johnny Buckley reached the agreement on the referee when the father-manager of the Georgia athlete said it was well that the Massachusetts arbiters step into the ticklish problem.

After a conference with Jack Dempsey it was decided that a referee and alternate should be selected by the boxing rulers in Sharkey's home State, and submitted to Pa and Buckley by February 20. If they falled to agree, then Jack Dempsey, Madison Square Garden's promoter, will do the selecting himself.

For Bouts at Yale Today

Still hunting victory in a team match, the Georgetown University boxers today will trade blows with Yale's ring exponents at New Haven, Conn. Six bouts are programmed instead of the usual seven, the heavyweight bout having been eliminated on request of the Elis, who deem a heavyweight fight too brutal for college boxers.

Owing to the injury of Jim Greeves in the Navy match last Saturday, Coach McNamara has named Jack Tierney, the Hilltop's utility man, to handle the middleweight assigns ent. Tierney already has fought in the heavyweight and light heavy classes this season.

McNamara also changed the bantamweight representative, giving Bob Saur's place to Joe Davis who will be fighting for the first time in Georgetown silks. Emmett Hagerty will fight at 125, Joe Madden at 135, Henry Murphy at 145 and Mario Pozzo at 175. The tournament, the Washington rames of which are again being ponsored by The Washington Post, starts on March 11. With less than two weeks left to enter, teams are urged to hustle. It is an absorbing recount of his experiences in the rough-and-ready days of baseball by the man who single-handed combated all opposition that threatened the life of the game. He tells them all notably: How the American League opened war on the National League, gutted entire clubs of their stars, invaded New York with a team of stars stolen under the cover of darkness from the Pittsburgh Pirates and finally forced the National League to accept peace terms as laid down by Johnson.

THE CASES OF JOHN M'GRAW, EDDIE COLLINS AND TRIS SPEAKER

How Christy Mathewson and Frank Bowerman were returned to the National League to soothe the ruffled feelings of the owner of the Giants and how John McGraw put the Baltimore American League Club out of business for one day by his desertion to the Giants.

How he handled the stars and manipulated the big deals which startled the American League in more modern days, including the Carl Mays case and the transfer of Eddie Collins to the White Sox and Tris Speaker to Cleveland.

How he combatted the Federal League and forced peace terms.

HIS LOSING FIGHT WITH JUDGE LANDIS AND WHAT ROTHSTEIN TOLD HIM

His losing fight with Judge Landis that resulted into a $50,000 yearly job for the latter and appointment as grand commissioner of the game. The exposure of the 1919 Black Sox scandal, His revelation of how implicated players were "gypped" by one clique and paid off by another.

What Arnold Rothstein told him.

Finally, his decision to fade out and leave behind him $320,000 in salary due him from the league.

The Children

A sparkling serial story by one of America's foremost novelists at the gleaming heights of her power.

The eldest boy's name is Terry, and his health is poer. "Scopy" recounts the tangled love affairs of the Wheaters to explain the group for Boyze. Boyze begins to mull over his own affairs, particularly with a Mrs. Seliare. Hitherto "unatiandable." her recalls her husbank have the Wheater Terry, the her-space intercede on his behalt with his parents to obtain a tutor. Complying with the Wheaters' request he hires a young Englishman.

The reminded her that she might have time later, and added that, now that her parents were in an educational mood, he wondered she able to keep up with Terry. At this she smiled a little wistfully; it was the same shy doubtful smile with which she had looked about her in the cathedral at Monreale, trying to puzzle out what he saw in it. But her frown of responsibility returned. "Go to school? Mc? But when, I'd like to know? There'll always be some of the children—never!" She brought the word out with the shrill emphasis he had already heard in her voice when her flock had to be protected or reproved. "We've all sworn that," she added, "We took an awful oath one day at Biskra that we'd never be separated again, no matter what happened. Even Chip had to hold up his fist and say. But her frown of responsibility returned. "Go to school? Mc? But when, I'd like to know? There'll always be some of the children left to look after. Why, I shall be too old for school before Chip is anywhere near Terry's age. And besides, I never mean to leave the children—never!" She brought the word out with the shrill emphasis he had already heard in her voice when her flock had to be protected or reproved. "We've all sworn that," she added, "We took an awful oath one day at Biskra that we'd never be separated again, no matter what happened. Even Chip had to hold up his fist and say, 'I swear.' We did it on Scopy's 'Cyclopedia of Nursery Remedies.' And If things went wrong again, and I was off at one of your schools. who'd see to it that the oath was kept?"

"But now that all the children are safely with your 'wa people, couldn't you let the oath take care of itself, and think a little of what's best for you?"
She raised her eyes with a puzzled stare which made them seem as young as Zinnie's. "You'd like me to go to school?"

"He returned the look with one of Amual gravity "Most awfully."

...He returned the look with one of equal gravity. "Most awfully." Her color rose a little, "Then I should like to."

Her color rose a little. "Then I should like to."

"Well, then—"
She shook her head and her flush faded. "I don't suppose you'll ever understand—you or anybody. How could I leave the children now? I've got to get them off to Switzerland in another fortnight; this is no place for Terry. And suppose Mr. Ormerod decides he won't come with us—"

"Won't come with you? But it's precisely what he's been engaged to do!"
She gave an impatient shrug like her mothers, and turned on Boyne a little face sharp with interrogation. "Well, then, suppose it was mother who didn't want him to?"

"Your mother? Why, child, it was she who found him. She knows all about him; she—"

"She jolly well likes doing Venice with him," Judy completed his sentence with a hideous promptness. It was Boyne's turn to redden. He averted his eyes from her with one of Miss Scope's abrupt twists, and pushed his chair back as if to get up. Judy leant across the table and touched his sleeve timidily.

"Tye said something you don't like."

"I've said something you don't like, Martin?" Martin?"
"You've said something exceedingly silly. Something I should hate to hear if you were grown up. But at your age it's merely silly, and doesn't matter."
She was on her feet in a flash, quivaling with aners. "My age? My age?

she was on her feet in a flash, quivering with anger. "My age? My age? What do you know about my age? I'm as old as your grandmother. I'm as old as the hills. I suppose you think I sughth to say things like that about mother—but what am I to do, when they're true, and there's no one but you that I can say hem to?"

He never quite knew, when she took that tone, if he was most moved or offended by it. There were moments when she frightened him; when he would have given the world to believe either that she was five years older than she said, or else that she did not know the meaning of the words she used. At such moments it was always the vision of Rose Seliars which took possession of him, and he found himself breathlessly explaining this strange child to her, and feeling that what was so clear to him would become incomprehensible as soon as he tried to make it clear to others, and especially to Mrs. Seliars. "There's nothing to be done about it," he thought despairingly. Aloud he remarked, in an impatient tone: "You're very foolish not to go to school."

She made no reply, but simply said, with a return of her wistful look: "Perhaps if you were going to stay here you'd lend me some books."

"But I'm not going to stay here; I'm off tomorrow morning," he answered angrily, keeping his head turned away with an irritated sense that if he should meet her aven he would see like cutting a new tooth. They hurt to bite on when one has so many. But he'll find people soon to go off for a cruise with him, and then he'll have to decide about your summer. Your people must see that this place is not bracing enough for Terry; and they'll want him to settle down somewhere in the mountains, and get to work as soon as possible."

want him to settle down somewhere in the mountains, and get to work as soon as possible."

The tone of his voice seemed to quiet her, though he suspected that at first she was too agitated to follow what he said. "But what "rt of people?" she brought out at length, disconsolately. "What sort of people?"

"To go on the yacht. That's another thing. When mother is away from father, and I'm with her, it's easier in some ways—except that then I fret about the other children. When Joyce and father are together they do all sorts of crazy things, just to be in opposition to each other. Take up with horrid people, I mean, people who drink and have rows. And then they get squabbling again, as they did when Buondelmonte sent father the bill for his Rolls-Royce. ""Buondelmonte?"

"Yes: but Joyce said we were never to

"Buondelmonte?"

"Yes; but Joyce said we were never to talk about that—she forbade us all." (Continued tomorrow.)

Forging Peggy Joyce's Name Brings Clerk Jail

New York, Feb. 15 (A.P.).—Forged checks against the bank account of Peggy Hopkins Joyce, actress, today brought to George E. Bolton, 38, a State prison sentence. Bolton, who had pleaded guilty to forgery, committed while he was a clerk in the Hotel Dorset, where Miss Joyce lives, was said by police to have spent money heavily on women, night clubs and liquor.

The forgeries amounted to about $650, a probation report said, but Bolton also was accused of stealing $400 from the hotel and leaving worthless checks in Detroit and Chicago. He was arrested in Denver. He was sent to arrested in Denver. He was sent to prison for not less than 15 months.

BONDS SELL LOWER AFTER SHORT RALL

All Sections of List, Except Secondary Rails, Yield; Oil Issues Improve.

FOREIGNS ARE IRREGULAR

New York, Feb. 15 (A.P.).-Prices in the bond market continued their downward course today after a short rally in the early morning session as money became scarce and the rate for call loans shot up to 10 per cent. Banks called $60,000,000 in loans. Most of this withdrawal was said to have been by out-oftown banks.
All sections of the list except the sec-endary rails yielded to the seiling Nearly a dozen issues established new lows for the year, and the Associated Press combined averages declined to their lowest level in more than two

Anaconda Copper 7s ran up to a new high at 209%, but fell back under realizing sales and closed the day for a net loss of 5 points, at 202%. Anaconda 6s and Chile Copper 5s, however, improved fractionally. Porto Rican-American Tocco 6s continued their decline after Oil Issues Improve.

Oils improved on excellent earnings reports for 1928. Humble 5½s, Colon 6s and Sinclair issues were strong, the last on resumption of dividends on common stock.

The selling in the utilities was featured by a drop of 7½ points by Public Service of New Jersey ½s. International Telephone convertible ½s, after a fractional rise, slumped nearly 2 points at the close. The 5s of Hudson County Gas, a subsidiary of Public Service of New Jersey, declined nearly 2 points to a new low for 1929 at 103½. American International 5½s, a recent favorite, lost 1½ points and Alleghany Corporation 5s declined fractionally.

B. & O. 4s Lead Downward.

The decline in first-grade rails was led by Baltimore & Ohio first general 4s, which sagged nearly 2 points to a new low for the year at 89%. A poor earnings report sent Louisville & Nashville refunding 5s B to a new low for the year. Fonda, Johnstown & Gloveraville 4½s led the advance in the secondary rails, with a gain of nearly 2 points.

To be dated February 1, 1929

The city of Berlin owns all of the company's capital stock and has entered into an agreement with the company, extending beyond the maturity of these debantures, empowering the company to fix rates for the sale of electricity adequate to cover all operating expenses interest and amortization of loans, depreciation and other proper reserves, and providing that, upon termination thereof, the city shall assume all obligations of the companincluding interest and amortization of loans.

The following information has been nummarized by Dr. Lange, Treasurer of the city of Berlin, and Dr. Kaufmann and Dr. Adolph, Managing Directors of Berlin City Electric Company, Incorporated, from their letter dated February 14, 1929, copies of which may be obtained upon request, and is subject to the more complete information contained therein:

Berlin City Electric Company, Incorporated was organized by the city of Berlin in 1923 to operate, under lease from the city, the electric works which since 1915 had been operated directly by the city. The company sells about 90% of the electric current supplied in Berlin, which, with a population of more than 4,000,000, is the third city in size in the world. Customers, numbering approximately 700,000, include the surface and underground railway systems of Berlin and German National Railways, as well as purchasers of current for domestic and industrial purposes. A large majority of the industrial concerns in Berlin are customers of the company, including the Siemens concern and Allgemeine Electricitaets Gesellschaft (General Electric Company, Germany). In 1928 the company produced more than 68% of the current sold by it produced more than 68% of the current sold by it. PURPOSE OF ISSUE The proceeds of the sale of these debentures are to be used to liquidate all current borrowings of the company except approximately $3,900,000 due during 1929, to make extensions to the leased properties and for other corpor-CAPITALIZATION

Upon issuance of these debentures, the company's funded and other long-term debt and capital stock will be as follows: Thirty Year 61/2% Sinking Fund Debentures, due 1959 (this issue)..$15,000,000 Twenty-Five Year 61/2% Sinking Fund Debentures, due 1951..... 20,000,000

8% Goldmark credit, due serially 1932 to 1935 5,997,600
Capital Stock (15,000,000 Reichsmarks par value) 3,570,000

In addition, in consideration of the application to the extension of the leased properties of the proceeds of approximately 72% of the 6½% External Loan of 1925 of the city of Berlin ($13,909,000 now outstanding) and of approximately 39% of the 6% External Loan of 1928 of the city of Berlin ($14,908,000 now outstanding), the company has obligated itself to pay to the city of Berlin interest and amortization upon such proportions, respectively, of these EARNINGS

Net earnings of the company after rentals, taxes not based on profits, depreciation and payments under the Dawes Plan, but before deducting interest and appropriations junior thereto, for the four-year period ended December 31, 1928 (December 1928 estimated), have been as follows:

The maximum annual interest requirement of the company as of January 31, 1929, but adjusted to give effect to this financing, including $264,834 of interest on current borrowings but excluding interest payments ranking jumor to interest on these debentures, was $3,772,934. This interest requirement includes interest on more than $24,000,000 of indebtedness from the proceeds of which no substantial benefits are reflected in the above earnings. Conversions of German and Swiss currencies into United States currency have been sinds at par of exchange (one Reichentar's equals 23.5 centra; one Swiss franc equals 19.5 centra).

A substantial amount of these debentures has been withdrawn for offering in Europe, including offerings in Holland by Mendelssohn & Co. Amsterdam, Nederlandsche Handel-Masterhappij and others.

We offer them debentures for delivery if, when and as issued and accepted by us, subject to approval of legal proceedings by counsel. It is expected that delivery will be made on as about february 28. 1929, in the form of temporary debentures, or interim receipts of Dillon. Read & Co.

When he was named chairman of special airport subcommittee of the ste District committee, Vandenerg surveyed the situation at the Canital and concluded that the Stalker bill to establish an airport at Gravelly Point had no chance of passing at this session. The bill provides that the airport shall be paid on a 50-50 basis by the Federal and District Governments, an arrangement that has been disapproved by the Bureau of the Budget.

Senator Vandenberg sought to make it clear yesterday that he has taken no definite stand on the question of what would constitute a fair division of the cost of the airport. Nor will he take such a stand, he said, until the proposed survey is completed.

In the end, he said, it may be found that Senator Bingham, of Connecticut, was right when he declared that the traffic at the airport would be largely Federal in character and that, therefore, the cost of the airport should be borne either entirely or in large part by the Federal Government.

Alleged Speeder.

Ralph Ruby, former prohibition agent, was declared guilty and a few moments later declared not guilty of a third speeding offense by the same jury in Police Court yesterday before Judge Issac R. Hitt. This unusual procedure resulted when the foreman of the jury became confused in rendering the verdict.

Testimony revealed that Policeman E. C. Moore arrested Ruby on February 2 and charged him with traveling at 45 miles an hour. The defense, conducted by Harry T. Whalen, attorney, revealed the patrolmani's speedometer had not been tested for accuracy in three months prior to the arrest.

The jury filed into the courtroom after a short deliberation. The clerk of the court asked for the verdict and the foreman responded:

"Oulity as charged."

"No, no. That's not right. He's not guilty." hurriedly corrected a woman juror.

The jury was ordered to retire again, after the foreman acknowledged his mistake and immediately returned with the acquittal verdict.
